Tribute to Our Dearest Friend, Hosa

And so, Friends and Family have gathered to celebrate your life today?

What an irony?

It seems only like yesterday when you accompanied Sola and myself to Ilesha to do dust-to-dust to her grandmother.

I remember seeing you on the dance floor with your beautiful wife Evelyn, dancing the nonagenarian lady away to heaven.

And that was after you had strained all day and exerted so much energy to personally arrange for everyone who accompanied us on that long journey and in that excruciating nation-wide fuel scarcity, to fuel their vehicles for the return trip to Lagos.

That's how selfless you were to us, and it was only one small aspect of your love and generosity towards our family.

Hosa knowing you has been a real privilege.

Always giving a listening ear.

You were indeed generosity personified

Always proposing a solution. Always giving a helping hand.

We were not just friends, we were family.

You were always there for us through the good days and even when things were not so good.

It's hard to believe that our Ho-sa-sa-sa – Hosa is no more.

Jolly good fellow

The last time we both spoke to you in turns on your sickbed, we were holding back our tears while you kept on assuring us that you were in a good place

Indeed, we know that you are happy now because you're no longer in pain

You're no longer running helter-skelter attending to friends, family, and clan.

Although we do not have a clue as to why this should happen so early in your prime

We are however, consoled by the fact that your Creator needs you at this time even more than we need you.

Your friendship was indeed a blessing to our family.

Farewell our amazing friend.

Rest in peace at the bosom of the Lord Jesus
